

TIFFANY LYONS

Senior Consultant

Tiffany Lyons is a Senior Consultant in the US office of Lord Cultural Resources. In leading projects, Tiffany works to incorporate the voices of all team members and client team partners. Keeping lines of communication open and creating opportunities to intentionally address concerns and develop the best method of collaboration between our teams.

Her aptitude for online platforms helps her to lead project surveying, digital engagement, and action planning implementation. She works collaboratively with clients to provide insightful, strategic recommendations and content that is solution-based and grounded in thorough and comprehensive research and analytic methods.

Tiffany's approach is rooted in the search to find the stories that connect us all. Her recent projects include cultural planning for Prince George's County (MD), the City of Kingston (NY) and City of Charlotte (NC) and strategic planning for the National Museum of African American Music, Poetry Foundation, and the New Orleans African American Museum and the Smithsonian Institution Building and Arts and Industries Building, among others.

Prior to joining Lord Cultural Resources, Tiffany worked with Il Museo del Duomo in Florence, Italy and The Rock Hall Museum in Long Island, New York. Tiffany brings to Lord Cultural Resources her expert knowledge of visitor relations, small museum administration and analytics.
