

HÉLOÏSE AMEZ-DROZ

Consultant

As a new Consultant, Heloise brings three years of professional experience gained within the arts & culture non-for-profit sector, from Toronto and Chicago. She worked on digital communication, donor relationships, event and project management. She is passionate about offering arts & culture to wider audiences and demonstrating its ability to make the world a better place.

Heloise holds a Master's degree in Cultural Heritage Law from Paris-Sud University (France), a Master's degree in International Law from Pantheon-Assas University (France), and a Master's degree in Arts & Culture Management from the Rome Business School (Italy). In 2020, she completed a course on the Management of Successful Arts and Cultural Organizations, by the DeVos Institute, and led by the renowned arts administrator Michael Kaiser. She is bilingual in French/English and fluent in Spanish. In addition to the opportunity of working on multiple projects with Lord Cultural Resources, she aims to learn Arabic, become certified in project management (Project Management Institute) and to join an ICOM International Committee.
