

ANNE BOEHM

Project Manager

Based in Dubai, Anne Boehm joined Lord Cultural Resources as a Project Manager in 2014, after spending seven years working on major cultural projects in Abu Dhabi (United Arab Emirates). Anne is a resourceful and result-oriented museums and exhibitions professional with strong experience in managing museum and exhibition projects. Through more than ten years of living and working in the Gulf Region, over a year based in India, and another 12 months working between Turkey, Egypt and Greece, Anne has acquired strong international work experience and a great ability to adapt to various work environments.

The versatility of her profile and experience allows Anne to bridge and interface effectively with a wide range of professionals (from museum specialists to architects, designers, contractors and suppliers) and across multiple areas of specialties, such as general museum planning, interpretive and facility planning, organizational and operational planning, content and research, marketing & communication, operations, as well as design, building, fabrication, installation and site supervision.

Above all, Anne believes that understanding clients' needs and expectations, offering a tailored and collaborative project management approach, and setting very high quality work standards are key to successful projects.

Anne holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in Archaeology and History of Art from the Marc Bloch University in Strasbourg, France; a Bachelor degree in Marketing and International Management from the Chamber of Commerce and Industry, Strasbourg, France and a Master's of Science degree in Museum Studies from the Leicester University, United Kingdom, where her thesis work focused on project management in a museum context.
