

Towering figures leave a void in Hamilton

The Hamilton Spectator · 21 Mar 2017 · A10 · RE: Hamiltonians lost

In the past few weeks, three towering figures from the Hamilton community created a palpable absence with their passing from both Hamilton's and Canada's cultural landscape. They may have never known each other but they touched all of us who care deeply about history, art, culture and community with their passion, intellect and generosity. Dr. William Bensen, Barry Lord, Henry James (Mike) Watson
